TMI's marine engineers all set for the future

— Sriti Devadiga

[Induri, August 18th]

History has taught us that winners usually encounter impossible obstacles before they triumph; they win because they refuse to be discouraged. This was proved by the 11th batch of Marine Engineering, Tolani Maritime Institute (TMI), Induri.

The air at the sprawling campus of TMI was thick with excitement and pride today, as a batch of its marine engineers bid adieu to their alma mater and passed out with flying colours. The graduating class was bursting with emotion.

Naval dignitaries, sponsoring shipping company delegates, parents and guests of the cadets all attended a grand ceremony that marked the completion of the four-year shore-based training for these young aspiring seafarers.

After greeting the parents and dignitaries, Principal of TMI Dr. B.K. Saxena proudly presented the welcome address. "Don't make the mistake of thinking that your education and training are over," he said to the cadets. "It is now time to use the knowledge and skill that you have acquired at the institute. The shipping industry requires every seafarer to be aware, alert and patient. You all have a responsibility to perform well at sea and keep the flag of TMI flying high. Your every action should make you, your parents, the institute, your company and the nation proud."

The event witnessed the presence of Capt. J.C. Anand - Chairman Emeritus and Adviser to the Indian Register of Shipping - as the Chief Guest, along with Prof. Dr. G. Sundar, Deputy Director of Off-Campus Programs, BITS, Pilani, who graced the occasion as the Guest of Honour.

"Passion for your profession will make you champions. You will create an identity that will be remembered forever. Learn from your mistakes and let challenges bring out the best in you. You all must remember that the golden rule onboard is safety, and there is no compromising with this. The shipping industry is going through the worst recession and the only rule that applies during this time is survival of the fittest," opined Dr. Sujata Naik - Tolani, Vice Chairperson, TMI Governing Council.

After this, Prof. I.K. Basu, Programme Chair, Marine Engineering presented the course report.

FELICITATING THE BEST

TMI has always believed in felicitating those cadets who give their best to course academics and extra-curricular activities. Awards were given out to these cadets for various achievements like Best Academic Performance, Best Leadership Qualities and Best All Round Performance. Two female cadets were also felicitated with special scholarships at the event.

Capt. J.C. Anand, who has been called the 'Bishma Pitamah' of shipping by Dr. Saxena, motivated the young lot. "It is amazing to see the unbelievable growth TMI has gone through in such a short span of time," he said. "It is the encouraging nature of the faculty that goes the extra mile in training young seamen and making them eligible to join the league of 1.5 million seafarers around the globe."

"You have all chosen a dynamic career and it is now your responsibility to meet the challenges of the ever-changing maritime industry. Your seniors before you have set the tradition of righteousness, efficiency, professional skill and virtue, and it is up to you to follow this path and make TMI proud," stated Capt J.C. Anand.

The function was compered by Ms. Puja Awachat and Capt. Banerji. The ceremony concluded with Capt. Razdan rendering the Vote of Thanks.
